

H A R K    H E R A L D

you absolutely must be kind to everyone (pt.1)

u and i together down the street and back with hell in our handbaskets because we have love for three oranges and a hammer for every nail and every wise man's son doth know that moths have drab wings to avoid the jaws of the other but i would like to be eaten actually so i'll paint myself brightly just to go to the shops and now we are in the produce section watching the boy with tattoos in the queue his braids are brushing his waist and his fingers are so tight on the neck of that milk carton he grips like a good lover and we are just watching quietly in total awe as he pays and leaves forever but it's okay because tonight is date night so we will return home and go through one and a half bottles of cheap wine and a frozen pizza and every single do u have bpd quiz from the first three pages of google search results and we are laughing ourselves sick and telling each other all the funny stories we like to tell people as if we hadn't told each other those stories before as if we were total strangers and then we'll go to bed and even though the pills won't let me come when we fuck it doesn't matter because u can't ever rush the good stuff anyways and besides i think u know by now what we're about to tell u which is that u can trust us when we say that we are completely happy to continue being the bonfire that always blows smoke into ur face no matter how often u stand up and walk to the other side of the pit or maybe actually more like the sun whose blinding glare never leaves ur eyes no matter what angle u stand at and u might think us cruel but i promise u darling we know better than anyone that You Absolutely Must Be Kind To Everyone.